WHERE'S THE OL' TIME PEP?

We would like the home owner show a proper pride in the industry of building up our town An industry that we all should be busily at work with.

It seems that during the last year we have gone through a hard trying period. And now we need moral support from every individual to make the city move up a notch. We have heard more about what a live, wide awake town Grayling has been and how it has slipped. So much so, that our neighbors and every one else are talking it along with ourselves, until we have done untold damage. Let us forget it, let everyone get behind and boost. Let us help the fellow who is trying to put things over that helps your town.

Now is the time to start and keep going. We were at one time lot of good boosters, known all over as live wires. What has happened? Look at your downtown today. See the improvements. What does it all mean? Let us stop and think about it and then wake up to the fact that we have been just a little bit slow, and it is up to us everyone to get bu y, boost for the old home town, the merchants, the manufacturer, and anyone that does something to help your town and my town to be a better town to live in.

This means everyone from the fellows who just finished school to our banker. From labor to finance. One is no good without the other. Roll over and wake up. Let us go-everybody together!

"What's the matter," said a kind stranger to a Graylingite, "are you lost?" "No," was the mournful answer," "I ain't lost, I'm here; here in Grayling, but I'd like to know where the old time pep and punch that we used to have here has wandered to."

At 10:30 a. m. the pastor will speak on the theme "The Choice of Trails."
Have you ever tried to look at life from the point of view of a man seventy-five years of age and faced with death? If so, do you think that one hour out of 168 hours is too much to spend in worship with others? If one hour of worship with others? If one hour of worship with others? If one hour of worship in the church is horesome to you now, how can you enjoy eternity in company with the saints in praising God and doing His service? Too many of us are coming to old age to realize then "the tragedy of having missed it."

At 8:00 p m. the pastor will speak on the subject: "Mars and Scars." You will enjoy this message from the Book. Come with us and we will do thee good. July 8 1928

INSANITY AND DEFENSE

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

A RE we all just a little off mental-In ly, or perhaps something more than a little? Some one has said so. and has tried to prove that if we wer quite normal, whatever normality may mean, we should never do an irregu-lar thing, never show bad judgment or crude manners, or attract the at-tention of our friends or the police by our failure to come up to certain standards. Maybe it is so. There was a crime committed not long ago in the neighborhood in which

I used to live. A young man, tazy and selfish and not given to work, in order to cover up a moral irregularity of which he had been guilty, perpe-trated another offense which injured one young person permanently and endangered the lives of a score more. The crime was planned and the purpose of it quite evident to anyone who was familiar with the people con-cerned. Wholesale murder was prevented only by the merest accident. There was no doubt of the man's guilt and no apparent reason to any unprejudiced onlooker why he should not have had an immediate trial and quick conviction.

I followed the case with interest because of my knowledge of the com nunity and a slight acquaintance with the people concerned. On the open ing the local paper bore these head lines in giving an account of the first day's proceedings: "Instalty will be the defense." And insanity was the defeuse. Here was a young fellow, selfish and without moral ideals, who had committed one crime to conceal another. He was crazy, his lawyer held, or he would not have done either Fortunately, the practical hard headed working men who composed the jury could not see it in that way, and the man was condemned and sentenced as he should have been. It is curious how, in these days of clever lawyers and shrewd criminals. the attempt is made to make the un balanced mind an excuse for all sorts of moral and legal irregularities, and alienists can be found who will prove a man insane no matter what course of action he has been following.

If a man robs a bank, or a minister runs off with the young and attractive wife of one of his parishioners. If a young fellow forges a few checks, or holds up an oil station having sand bagged the operator—if any of these things happen and the perpetrator is apprehended at once the defense is set up that the unfortunate pers n who has been guilty of the irregular-ity is in an unbalanced state of mind and should not, therefore, be punished And the surprising fact is how many people get away with it.

I suppose that later this sort of offense will go even farther. If I neg lect to pay my fire insurance and my house burns, the company is still liable, for I was crazy. Any man would be who lets his insurance lapse. If I forget to mail my wife's letters, if in anger I assault a neighbor, if I shoot neighbor's chickens which are scratching up my garden, insanity will be the defense. It will be a haven for every criminal.

lá Daureny La THIRRY the Love Deadline.

By ELSIE JANIS I have never envied a philosopher

his power to philos. The greatest moments of my life ave been the ones I could not understand. Aud now after reading Mr. Durant's soul startling statement that no man can love after thirty I feel a great out for Mr. Durant. I would like to take his hand in mine and ask him gently what hap pened to him when he was twenty pine? Or perhaps I should ask what did not happen to him that has made him choose thirty as the crucial age when all men give up loving and start lying?

Because certainly most of the mer who are labeled great lovers re over thirty-not much over-and if they have their way it will be years before they move on from what is known as the early thirties.

Is it possible that because they don't ove they know how to love so well? I can think of three men-if I'm not too conceited-who have been on my of thirty.

And if these men did not love or at least feel all the symptoms, then I'm ready to hand over all the palms I've been lucky enough to collect for doing imitations for that trio. They can divide them while I, with my pride in the dust, will be heard murmuring through my sobs: "They ain't done right by me, Maw they was only lettin' on!"

I believe Mr. Durant really said men over thirty are incapable of falling in love. Well! Maybe the men I have in mind now and certainly had in heart at different times, didn't fall—maybe they just strolled in. I can only say that their service was satisfactory and to me, in my atter ignorance of philosophy and its "uppercuts," they seemed just as capable of being in love as if they had fallen or even een pushed into that delightful state.

Mr. Durant said by love he meant true devotion - Ah! now there's the catch, True Devotion!

To be devoted means, as I understand it, to devote one's time, attention, flowers, fruit, or what baven't you, to some one. Certainly a man of a certain age and a more certain salary can do that better than a younger one

But true? Now i, by true Mr. Durant means absolute fidelity, then I'll agree that he is right, only I wouldn't set any age limit.

Don't misunderstand. I do not mean that all men are unfaithful, but if it is accepted that "As a man thinketh, so is he," then I believe true devotion, though much more talked about than the dodo bird, is just about as rare. I have been asked whether I think woman call fall in love after thirty.

Of cours., it takes the average woman so long to reach thirty that she's apt to be tired from holding out birthdays, but being one whose years have been added up by experts who remember the date of my debut as a star along with the dates of the Johnstown flood, Chicago fire, Japanese earth-quake and other catastrophes, and having very little chance of doing any subtle substracting, I am here to say that any woman who cannot fall in love after thirty ought to be psychoan alyzed, vaccinated or have her tonsils

Practice makes perfect, and some times perfect bliss. To many women, love affairs under thirty can be classed as dress rehearsals

Certainly after thirty both men and women demand more of love than in extreme youth, that divine period before co-ordination of mind and body exists. Please notice I do not mention the heart in the combination for I believe the heart is about the last organ to let us down.

There are surely men and women of sixty whose hearts still flutter at thoughtful attentions, kind words, and friendly smiles, but to love with the heart alone must be like trying to fly plane possessing only a rudder to guide it and wings to fly with if it could only rise to the sky. My theory is that of eighteen the heart in its youthful enthusiasm leads here and there, the body following joyfully, the mind saying I should worry!—this is not my affair!

Then at about twenty-five, the body says to the heart, Pay a lot of attention to me. I won't always be as beau tiful as I am. I'd like something definite. The heart says. Oh! come on, let's just browse along, it's such fun. And the mind says, it's about time I stenned in. These two are make ing a sap out of me.

Personally, I'm going to keep on falling in love just as long as I can find some one to rehearse with me. It may not e love but it certainly is extremely pleasant.

"Have you a savings bank account?"

countered Aunt Emmy.
"Well, er—I suppose I haven't," he admitted. "You see, it's hard to save money when you're first married. Somehow there never seems to be enough money to go 'round let along to put in a savings bank."

"You never will have it you don't get started," interrupted Aunt Emmy. "You should make your weekly say first claim on your salary after paying your bills. I make my weekly de posit in this bank faithfully—I put away a certain sum regularly." 'You can!" Nat commented.

"It is more a habit than you would suppose," Aunt Emmy continued. "Any one can do it who is willing to let other things wait. I began putting a little money in a savings bank years ago when it was no joke to save a fey ennies. I remember what a wonder ful thrill I got the first time I saw my interest entered in my bank bo There was money that my money had earned all by itself. After that it was a sort of game with me to put a certain sum in the hank even if I had to do without things I would have enjoyed having. Now I realize what it means to keep your money busy earning all the time so I continue to put a little in the savings bank regularly and, after it accumulates, I draw some out invest in safe securities that nav a higher rate of interest than savings. All the time, you see, the money is working for me.

"Of course, when the sum is small, it earns little, but if you start young. as you and Molly are, it is almost like magic the way it mounts up after a few years-then when your savings get grown up into a real investment they earn a real income." "I never thought of it in that light."

said George. "Try it-and see for yourself how it works." urged Aunt Emmy. you ever thought how nice it would be to have a few dollars ready for use in case of an emergency? The Inspiration of the Audience in Indiana not long ago, and a or two before the event I had a note from the man in charge of the dinner or meeting of the association or whatever it was which required that some one say something, asking for a synopsis or a resume of what I proposed saying. I had to reply that I seldom write out my speeches very informal, and what I say and the way I say it depends to a large extent upon the response I get from individ-ual members of the audience.

If I see my hearers growing restless or dropping off comfortably to sleep I change my tactics. I say something I had perhaps not intended at all to say, and I am very likely to cut my speech short. There is nothing I so much dislike as to tire or to hove people. I shall never make a good b caster over the radio. To do my best I must see the effect of what I am doing upon those who are listening. spoke once years ago to an audience sitting almost in total darkness. It was a curious experience. I knew only vaguely whether they were awake or asleep. Sometimes a little ripple of appreciation went over the group, but for the most part I might as well have been talking to a blank wall. What I needed to make me do my best, as I believe almost every speaker needs, was the inspiration of a wide awake life out of a speaker more than to see scattered about the audience room a few of those pregent sound asleep. True, it is hard to keep some people awake no matter what one is saying or how he is saying it. I have in mind now a middle-aged acquaintance of mine whom I do not now recall ever being seen awake during an address to which he was beling exposed. Some day, I hope to have a chance to try him out, for I believe the test of a speech is the percentage of listeners who can be kept at alort and interested attention, and the originality of the speaker and the spontaneity of his speech is largely influenced by the inspiration which comes from sympa thetic and responsive attention.

No one whom I have ever heard, I think, felt the influence of this inspirational response from his audience more than Mr. Dwight L. Moody, the great evangelist. I heard him say once that he could scarcely go on with an address when he could see some inattentive person among his auditors His main interest and effort in such case was not the message which he was trying to deliver but the gaining auditor. He did this even if he had Studente in Agricultural Economics t Be Helped in Farm States-Will Also Facilitate Entry into Businese Life.

One hundred and sixty-seven collegiate loan scholarships will be provided by the American Bankers Association 98 of which are now heing prof fered to 71 selected colleges and universities in $4 states, it has been an acunced by John H. Puelicher, Chair man of the Board of Trustees of the Association's Foundation for Educaof $500,000 was started in 1925 to commemorate the Association's fiftieth anniversary and its aim is to stimulate and aid worthy men or women students to pursue courses in banking and economics in collegiate institutions throughout the country.

The scholarship awards will be available for the scholastic year beginning this fall and will provide recipients with unit loans of $250, to be repaid on easy terms following their entry into earning business life. In several farm states, it is provided, scholarships shall be specifically awarded in agricultural economics.

A special feature of the plan in ad dition to its educational advantages is that scholars upon discharge of all their financial obligations connected with their loans, will be given certificates of honorary membership in the foundation signed by the members of the board of trustees, which will be available as evidence of financial reliability for their use in starting their business careers.

Easy Terms

Scholarship payments will be given only to those whose means of educa-tion are dependent in whole or part upon their own efforts and will con linue only during satisfactory scholas tic standing or conduct. The loans are at five per cent beginning the first day of the second January after the date the scholar leaves school, with no interest on repayment made prior to that time. Loans may be paid off in monthly installments of $10 or more. After three installments have been promptly met payments may be placed on a quarterly basis until the loan is wiped out which must occur within three years. In cases of delin-quencies, consideration will be given to special circumstances, such as ill health or unavoidable unemployment.

1924 TOURIST CUIDS BLIGHTS MAGAZINES TELLING OF EAST MICHIGAN'S SUMMER.

(By E. M. T. Scrvice)

(By E. M. T. Bervice)

Letters continue to come to the office of the East Michigan Tourist association from members of the association and from others complimenting the association upon the completeness, educational value and general excellence of the 1928 tourist guide and directory.

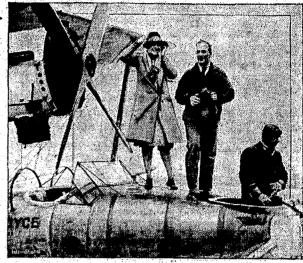

One member says: "It ought to be a mighty valuable thing for any person coming into Michigan to have it in his possession and if the demand for that isue doesn't exceed our supply I am no judge of human nature and human greediness and curiosity."

This statement reflects the general fraction. The demand for the tourist guide and directory is exceedingly strong and it is necessary for the East Michigan Tourist association to place a nominal price upon the guide. The guide is, however, sent without charge in response to inquiries received by the East Michigan Tourist association from its advertising.

(By E. M. T. Service)

Articles sent out by the East Michigan Tourist saccitation and prompts in the michigan Manufacture & Financial Record, "The Salinte," official organ of the Palestiner," official organ of the Automobile Club of Northern Michigan; "Montour," official organ of the Automobile Club of Northern Michigan fracturer & Financial Record and also in Northern Lights accented the desirability of residents of East Michigan becoming acquainted with East Michigan forers and to get association from its advertising.

The permanent chairman, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, set off some fireworks when he declared that there would be no "wet" plank in the platform. He made a plea for religious tolerance, saying "Jefferson gioried in the Virginia statute providing for religious freedom." This started one of the most noisy of the many demonstrations that marked this convention.

SECRETARY OF STATE KELLOGG has called upon the governments of 14 nations to algo a revised and mail draft of his projected anti-war treaty. The text of the slightly modified peace pact, together with a covering note, has been delivered to Great Rettels and her demisions together. Britain and her dominions, togethe with France, Italy, Germany, Japan and the Locarno powers. Each of the interested governments was urged to sign on the dotted line at once and to accept the treaty as written without qualification or reservation. This government, Mr. Kellogs stated, is prepared to sign the treaty as it now stands without reservations

Mr. Kellogg brushes aside most of the objections advanced by France and other powers and states frankly that his examination of their replies to his first note, inviting them to cooperate in the negotiation of a treaty for the renunciation of war, has re vealed no reasons why they should not adhere to the final draft of the treaty at once. He described the changes in the treaty as slight.

In making public his note placing the matter of approving the latest treaty draft squarely up to the interested powers, State department officials made it known that 12 of the nations have signified, through their ambassadors, a readiness to sign the treaty at once

France and Italy are understood to be the only nations whose representa-tives have displayed reluctance toward complete acceptance of the Kellogg

The confidence felt by Mr. Kellogg in the ultimate success of his peace activities is expressed in the concluding lines of his invitation.

"My government is confident," he as-rts. "that the other nations of the world will, as soon as the treaty comes in force, gladly adhere thereto, and that this simple procedure will bring mankind's age-long aspirations universal peace nearer to practical fulfillment than ever before in the history of the world."

PREMIER POINCARE'S bill to stabilize the franc at 8.93 cents and wipe out billions of wealth in French bonds of war and prewar issues was passed by the chamber of deputies by a vote of 450 to 22. Many of the bonds, which will be reduced 80 per cent in value, were sold in America.

The senate later voted in favor of the stabilization bill by 258 to 3, and the law is now in effect. Thus the French parliament buried the venerable old franc-the franc that before the war held up its head among the other currencles of the world at 20 cents. It was 125 years of age, hav-ing been born in the days of the first consul, later to become Napoleon L, the emperor of the French. C HARGING that the Aluminum Com-pany of America, its officers and others entered into a conspiracy, to create an aluminum monopoly in this untry to the detriment of others er gaged in the industry, the Basch Mcchine Tool company of Springfield, Mass., has filed suit in the Federal court at Boston against the company.

The plaintiff company names Andrew W. Mellon, James B. Duke and others as having participated in the alleged conspiracy, but does not make them defendants.

The bill alleges that, although Mellon resigned as a director of the Aluminum Company of America in 1920, he continued to participate in the policies and management of its aftor therein.'
